Dear Chairman Abney and members of the House Committee on Education:

I am a current Promise Scholar who has enjoyed the Promise scholarship a lot. I am writing in support of Rhode Island Promise at CCRI and urge this committee to vote in favor of making the program permanent. The cost of college is simply too expensive for many Rhode Island families. Providing two years free tuition at CCRI will provide thousands of young Rhode Islanders the opportunity to earn their degree without the crippling debt associated with college. Also, this will help a lot of High School students be more passionate about wanting to go to college.

As a student, I have hope to continue my education and enter the workforce as a vital and active contributor to Rhode Island's economy. Especially now, CCRI's graduates will bring economic development and drive our state's recovery. I believe it is a good education policy and a smart economic development policy, and I can personally attest, I've benefitted from it. For these reasons, I ask that you support making the program permanent and give thousands of Rhode Island students like me as well as their families the security of knowing a college education can be a reality.

Sincerely,
Annie Carlone
